

North Carolina NOW Legislative Update--30 April 2017

30 April 2017

This Week

As expected, the legislature overrode Governor Cooper's vetoes of the two bills highlighted in last week's Legislative Update. The Governor filed suit on Wednesday over Senate Bill 68, which combines the state ethics board and board of elections and changes the composition and method of appointing members of the combined board. This is a new version of a law that the court threw out in 2016. The details are convoluted, but the heart of the matter is that both bills attempt to take away the governor's control of boards that are under the executive branch. On Friday, a three-judge panel issued a restraining order that prevents the law from going into effect until May 10. The Governor expressed confidence that this law will also be struck down. For more details, see: <http://www.newsobserver.com/news/politics-government/state-politics/article147406034.html>.

The legislature also overrode the Governor's veto of House Bill 239 that reduces the number of judges on the state court of appeals from 15 to 12. This move was prompted by the fact that three Republican judges on the court will reach mandatory retirement age this year, and without the new law the Governor would appoint replacements to complete their terms.

But something astonishing happened during the interval between the Governor's veto and the legislature's vote to override. Outraged by the crass power grab, Judge Douglas McCullough, a Republican member of the state Court of Appeals, abruptly resigned early, stating: "I did not want my legacy to be the elimination of a seat and the impairment of a court that I have served on." Governor Cooper quickly appointed John Arrowood to the court, who will be the first openly gay judge to serve. ### CROSSOVER UPDATE

The NCGA rushed through 200 bills last week before the April 27 at midnight crossover deadline. "Lawmakers have put into play at least six proposed amendments to the state Constitution," according to "With Closet Cleaned at General Assembly, Issues Still Remain," 4/29/17, at <https://www.usnews.com/news/best-states/north-carolina/articles/2017-04-29/with-closet-cleaned-at-general-assembly-issues-still-remain>.

The 200 bills included S676, which the Senate filed and adopted on 4/25/17. Among the new adjustments was the caveat that the Senate Rules will now exempt House Bills from crossover, if they are U.S. Constitutional Amendments. H102 became exempt as a result of the adjustment. The House Rules already had the same caveat exempting Senate Bill S85 on the same grounds.

On the other hand, the bad abortion bills introduced this session have 'died' because there was no action on them before the crossover deadline. But since there are ways to revive seemingly dead bills, we must continue to remain alert until the legislature adjourns.

"The deadline points to the next phase of this year's session, as well as hot-button issues Republicans will try to work out — and some that Democrats want to stop — before adjournment this summer. Final measures lacking GOP near-unanimity could get derailed by Democratic Gov. Roy Cooper's vetoes. [For] a look at some of those issues and what's up next at the Legislative Building", read the article.

ERA UPDATE

In a change of rules a few days before crossover, ERA bill H102 joined S85 in being exempt from the crossover deadline. Both bills will be active until the end of the session. Advocates should continue to call the members of the House and Senate Rules Committees urging that H102 and S85 be heard in committee. They have received hundreds of calls so far! Take action at <http://www.nc4era.org/alerts.html>

Following Women's Mobilization Monday on 3/27/17, ERA bills H102 and S85 in the NCGA became a hot topic of conversation at the inaugural forum of "Community Voices" during a News & Observer and ABC11 WTVD panel on Wednesday at the James B. Hunt Jr. Library on N.C. State's Bicentennial Campus in Raleigh: "Women's rights organizations and supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment, buoyed by the recent pro-ratification vote in Nevada, are pushing for similar action in North Carolina. In an effort to push a local ERA bill through the state House of Representatives, forum participants shared the phone number for Tim Moore, the House speaker, and urged the audience to let him hear their support." See: <http://www.newsobserver.com/news/politics-government/state-politics/article141659664.html> , 3/30/17.

On the heels of that public discussion, in a significant move, the editorial board of the News and Observer endorsed the ERA. See:

Lawsuit Updates

Since our Republican-dominated General Assembly has been passing law after law that is being or has been challenged in court, in addition to keeping up with new legislation introduced this session, I believe it is equally important to track the status of the various challenges to laws that have already been passed.

Vote ID/Voter Suppression Law

After a Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals panel ruled key provisions of a 2013 elections law unconstitutional (noting that it targeted African American voters "with almost surgical precision"), Governor McCrory hired private attorneys to appeal the ruling to the U. S. Supreme Court on behalf of the state because then-Attorney General Roy Cooper refused to do so. Governor Cooper and Attorney General Josh Stein have dismissed these private attorneys and removed the state from the appeal of the law. This action will not end the suit because the State Board of Elections is also a party.

Republican legislative leaders are crying "foul," claiming that both the Governor and Attorney General have exceeded their authority in the matter. For more information, see: <http://www.newsobserver.com/news/politics-government/state-politics/article134017644.html>, 2/21/17.

Expanding Medicaid under the Affordable Care Act

Governor Cooper has emphasized that expanding Medicaid under the Affordable Care Act, which would provide medical insurance coverage for up to 500,000 North Carolinians, is one of his highest legislative priorities. He has already begun the process of expanding Medicaid even though the General Assembly passed a law in 2013 prohibiting a governor from doing so without approval from the legislature. The Governor maintains that this law is unconstitutional because it violates the separation of powers and unlawfully restricts the powers of the governor. Medicaid expansion is still before the courts as Governor Cooper and the Republicans in the General Assembly continue their fight. This article gives a good summary of the history of the issue and where it stands today: <https://nondoc.com/2017/01/24/medicaid-expansion-north-carolina/>

HB2/HB142 Lawsuits

The ACLU and other parties that have filed lawsuits challenging the constitutionality of HB2 are seeking to amend their suits in light of the new law based on HB142 on the grounds that the new legislation retains some of the discriminatory aspects of HB2. The Justice Department has withdrawn its suit after the partial repeal of HB2, but the ACLU and Lambda Legal suits are continuing.

2017 Legislative Election on Hold

A Federal Appeals Court ordered new legislative districts be drawn by March 15 because 28 of our legislative districts are racially gerrymandered. New elections were ordered to be held for the redrawn districts in November, but the U. S. Supreme Court has now put the lower court order to redraw NC legislative districts and hold new elections in 2017 on hold. See:

Lawsuits filed as a result of the special session legislative power grab

A three-judge panel of the Superior Court has found the law that gave Republicans majorities on both the local and state elections boards unconstitutional. See: <http://electionlawblog.org/?p=91663>

Jack Nichols has written an excellent article summarizing and explaining the various lawsuits that have been filed in response to the legislative efforts to strip the governor of his traditional (some would argue constitutional) powers. Here is the link: <http://www.newsobserver.com/opinion/op-ed/article129015444.html>, 1/26/17. He cautions that this list is probably not complete because there likely will be more suits to come.

Referred to Judiciary II 02/22/2017
Did not survive crossover

HB163, Enact Right to Life at Conception Act: Would have the effect of outlawing abortion because although it would not "require" a woman to be prosecuted for terminating her pregnancy, doctors are not protected from prosecution at all. The bill does not specify the penalties for terminating a pregnancy nor does it explain how to determine the moment of conception.
Referred to Health; if favorable, Judiciary I 02/23/2017
Did not survive crossover

HB238, Economic Security Act of 2017: An omnibus bill that is a progressive economic wish list. Would raise the state minimum wage to $15/hr in phases over five years; mandate equal pay for equal work; require paid sick leave and family medical leave; increase the tipped minimum age; "ban the box" requiring people to disclose criminal histories on job applications; repeal public employee collective bargaining restrictions; and restore the earned income tax credit and tax credits for child care and certain employment related expenses.

HB575, Require Info about Abortion Pill Reversal: Would require doctors who perform non-surgical abortions to provide women with information provided by the Department of Health and Human Services concerning the possibility of "reversing" the procedure by not administering the second drug in the two-step process and giving the woman progesterone. There is no medical evidence that a non-surgical abortion can be "reversed" by administering progesterone. The "reversals" are actually normal failure rates of the procedure if the second medication is not administered. There is no evidence that there is much demand for "reversing" these abortions.

Referred to Health; if favorable, Judiciary I

04/06/2017

Did not survive crossover

HB594 (SB639), Healthy Mother/Healthy Child: Would prohibit use of restraints on pregnant prisoners during labor or delivery except under extraordinary circumstances that must be reported.

A new tax on hospitals would cover the cost. A federal waiver would be required to implement the program since Medicare expansion under the Affordable Care Act does not include premiums or a work requirement.
